

U3A in Ludlow May 2020 News

TAM Urgent!

The April Edition of Third Age Matters was dispatched during the month of April. So if you are not getting it and want it in future please let David Hatchell know. If you get it but do not want it likewise please let him know. He is at david@hatchells.co.uk
Please let David know as soon as possible.

Monday morning meetings

As we are unable to meet at the moment I have been in contact with our April and May speakers and they have agreed instead to fulfil their engagements in 2021.

In the meantime, Andy Griffiee, who will talk about Canals and Crime Fiction, has been busy writing another book. In contrast,

Sophie Matthews (Music in Art), a touring performer, has had her work severely disrupted. However, she has not allowed Covid-19 to stop her working at home and she and her partner, the duo GreenMatthews, have created the 'Keep it Local Tour' over a fourteen day period of lockdown. Click on the link and they will take you on a tour of their house and garden – with music played on some unusual instruments. The videos for the tour are numbered Day 1 to Day 14. Day 13 is my favourite!

Best wishes to everyone

Landscape History group

This group is producing a regular Newsletter, to which several members are contributing.

The cinema group

Members of this group are staying in touch via email and phone calls. Each week I go through Radio Times for the coming week and select a 'Film of the Week'. We watch the film, and then score it out of 10 and write our reactions to it, which I then summarise. This is similar to what we did before the virus. I'm encouraging other group members to make the recommendations, or do the summarising.
